Our Content Services

SEO Copy

Good SEO copy is invaluable for iGaming operators and affiliate companies alike. We have in-house SEO experts that are available to assist SEO departments and site owners create the content they need. Our aim is to cover every step of content creation that you need, including, but not limited to: keyword research, competitor analysis, site structure and link planning.

All of our writers are used to working with various specific templates for content creation. Together with the iGaming Content Services team you will not only get the best copywriting for your projects, but you will also minimise the time you spend coordinating them. If you prefer, we can, of course, even publish the articles for you.

Localisation

Poor localisation is one of the main problems facing iGaming operators and software suppliers. Most industry players still don't understand the importance of getting the basics right. The exactness of iGaming terminology, in many cases, can be difficult to check.

With iGaming Content Services you get a perfect opportunity to ensure that your site is well localised. We are not only experts at helping you with the launch of a new language version, but also in reviewing your current content in order to improve the overall quality, thus increasing your results.

News and Campaign Translations

No matter how amazing your marketing campaign is, it is vitally important to communicate your message in the perfect way for your audience. We are able to help you to translate your campaigns and ensure that your customers understand the offer exactly as you intended.

We will assist with any area or subject you need covered – from international news and local sports to new casino game launches. We also guarantee that not only will the work be high quality, but also that you will receive our translations in timely manner. If you wish, the translations can be done in the Translation Management System of your choice.

Game Content Translations

The number of casino games available is growing at an alarming rate. The competition is fierce, so helping the casino players to understand how the game is played and all the basic elements of the game is crucial for ensuring that they return to play again. Many software suppliers still only have their game rules available in English and translate the game rules only in the case that it is required by their licensee.

We, at iGaming Content Services, have the best language experts for you that are able to translate your game descriptions to over 30 different languages. Also, if you already have your games translated, then we can provide you with a quality check, so that you can be sure that your game content lives up to player – and operator – expectations.
